

Beware of the dreaded 'multiplier creep'

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

"It's the multiplier creep," Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Long told the Press-Record Wednesday in explaining why many local property tax bills are higher this summer even though tax rates are down, valuations are mostly unchanged by assessors, and many townships' multipliers are lower.

"Compounding" of multipliers is occurring from one year to the next, Long confirmed.

A $10,000 assessed home in each of the four local townships, affected by the year-and-one-half town multipliers, is valued now at $14,159 in Granite City, $10,774 in Nameoki, $13,064 in Venice Township and $14,546 in Chouteau, all in a span of approximately 13 months from a $10,000 valuation.

This geometric progression stems from combining year-old and new multipliers of 1.239 and 1.115 in Granite City, 9633 and 1.1185 in Nameoki, 1.1275 and 1.1605 in Venice Township, and 1.2146 and 1.1976 in Chouteau Township.

In an actual example of a Granite City residence with 66-foot lot frontage, the $11,630 assessment was boosted a year ago to $14,080 on the basis of the township's 1.22 multiplier.

For this summer's tax collection, a 1.15 multiplier was applied to $14,080 rather than $11,630, even though an aide of the Granite City assessor says the assessor did not alter the $11,630 estimate of worth (intended to be one-third, as Illinois law terms it, of the "full, fair cash value").

The result was a $16,210 assessment, up 39 percent from what the township assessor said a little more than a year ago was the appropriate valuation.

Long, of Godfrey, is the taxation legal adviser in the office of State's Attorney Don W. Weber.

He said, "The Madison County office of assessments is taking the proper actions," but that many citizens and legislators see problems associated with the "multiplier creep" and are trying to have it ended.

"The compounding of multipliers is by statute. It has caused quite a bit of stir in the legislature and has been discussed and discussed and discussed," Long said.

"The upward creep is a real problem. It can be compared to the tax bracket creep" in which inflation affects the percentage of taxation paid by a family on its federal income tax returns.

"It is a mandated creep. This county is acting under state statutes. Applying the multiplier in that way is not contrary to Illinois law."

Officials acknowledge that while township multipliers set by the county are being compounded, the state does not compound the county multipliers that it sets annually. (Madison County traditionally qualifies for a multiplier of one, which is no multiplier.)

In other words, the state goes back to its previous figures. If it sets a 1.4 multiplier for a particular county in two consecutive years, there is no increase in the valuation in the second year—other than any boosts made in individual valuations due to such factors as room additions or a township-wide reassessment.

But if a township gets a 1.4 multiplier two years in a row, the original assessment grows to 1.96 times the initial valuation ($10,000 would become $14,000 and then $19,600).

Critics of this method cite at least two shortcomings that appear serious, from their viewpoint.

1. Price deflation may have occurred; some homes probably have a lower resale value now because high mortgage interest rates have inhibited many potential buyers. Yet, a home encountering successive multipliers has a sharply higher value, for tax purposes.

2. A "crystal ball" that foretells the future is not standard operating equipment in most households. Yet, in deciding whether his or her new township-set assessment is more than a third of the actual value, justifying a protest and a request for an assessment hearing, the home owner has little or no way of guessing what multiplier is going to be applied to his property.

James Barton, Madison County supervisor of assessments, said this week that the potential unfairness is aggravated by the state's three-year averaging procedure.

A township's adherence to one-third of value is judged by averaging how close the township came to 33 1/3 percent in each of the past three years. This process causes an erratic, up-and-down, hard-to-predict pattern in the year-to-year multiplier pattern, Barton said.

He is hopeful that legislation may be signed within the next several weeks to eliminate three-year averaging.

In response to public fears that assessments may become so high as to be "confiscatory" in nature, with the concept of home ownership "taxed out" (Continued on Page 4)

The first ones to speak up were the ones to be seated in a different kind of Granite City aldermanic committee selection process Tuesday.

When it was over, Alderman Warren Decatur was the loser in a selection procedure that was not fully understood by Decatur, the council or the audience, until it was finished.

Committee members took turns being confirmed by council votes and as Decatur's turn came, the committee was declared full.

"Confusion over appointments to the city's 20 standing aldermanic committees, charged with studying various city operations and recommending actions, began in May.

Alderman Sharon Perjak of the Fourth Ward admitted she probably started—but also was ready to finish—the chain of events which ended Tuesday with her squeezing Decatur out of his spot on the pollution plan committee. Decatur had been the sometimes controversial and often campaigning chairman of that committee.

During the council's annual reorganizational meeting in May, Perjak sought memberships on committees already filled by aldermen unwilling to relinquish their committee positions. Along with other aldermen, she protested and was given the sought-after memberships. An ordinance limiting committee memberships to three was briefly cited, then lost in the shuffle.

During the ensuing weeks, at least three different lists of aldermanic committees were passed around the corridors of Granite City Hall. One reached the mayor's desk, but even that list seemed to change when he released his official list of chairmanship selections for the committees this month.

When the mayor's list revealed Aldermen Paul Bowler and Decatur had been replaced as finance and pollution committee chairmen respectively—both by new members added to committees already seating three members—they brought up the ordinance again.

MCCAMBRIDGE FATALITY. Wilbert Eggemeyer, 40, of 2159 Monroe St., lying on the pavement in background, is aided by two unidentified passersby and a Madison patrolman after Mr. Eggemeyer's motorcycle and a car driven by Darlene Smith, 208 Watson St., Eagle Park Acres, collided south of Fifth Street on McCambridge Avenue at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center by Madison ambulance then transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, where he died at 6:25 p.m. Tuesday. Details of the accident appear in today's Press-Record. (Press-Record Photo)

Downtown GC sidewalk sale Friday, Saturday

Downtown Granite City is expected to be a bustling area tomorrow and Saturday as merchants in the newly-named "Granite City Centre" begin cleaning both the downtown sidewalks and their shelves with a sidewalk sale entitled "Operation Clean Sweep."

There should be plenty to do and observe during the sale. Area organizations will erect booths selling ethnic and American foods, desserts and other items; the city's auto dealerships will line new cars along 19th Street between Benton Street and Grand Avenue for public viewing and merchants will give away 50 free tickets for the live play "Pippin" at the Washington Theater Friday, Aug. 13.

Tickets to the play's Aug. 13 performance, starting at 8:15 p.m., also will be on sale for a discount price of $3 a seat at most downtown stores during the sidewalk sale.

"Pippin" opens this Saturday evening at the Washington. A new theater company, "Summerstage-Granite City," is putting on the show. A separate story appears inside today's Press-Record, as do numerous advertisements promoting some of the special prices shoppers will be offered during the sale.

Most downtown stores will set up sale merchandise outdoors and will observe special hours Friday, staying open until 8:30 p.m. Store employees are being encouraged to wear aprons and brooms in keeping with the "Operation Clean Sweep" theme.

McCambridge crash fatal to cyclist

Wilbert J. Eggemeyer, 40, of 2159 Monroe St., was fatally injured at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday when the motorcycle he was riding and a station wagon, operated by Darlene Smith, 23, of 208 Watson St., Eagle Park Acres, collided on McCambridge Avenue near Fifth Street on the east side of Madison.

Two unidentified passersby, initially at the scene, attempted to aid Mr. Eggemeyer, who was propelled about 20 feet from his wrecked motorcycle by the collision's impact.

He was taken by the Madison ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and immediately was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, where he died at 6:25 p.m. Tuesday.

According to official reports, Mr. Eggemeyer was traveling south on McCambridge when Mrs. Smith, whose vehicle was northbound, reportedly made a left turn into the Kerr-McGee service station at 425 McCambridge Ave., in front of the cyclist.

She was given a traffic citation for

Madison authorities said details of the accident will be presented to the Madison County state's attorney's office for further review.

Related information concerning Mr. Eggemeyer may be found in today's obituary column.

Allege restraint by Moss

In an incident in which Madison Police Chief Donald L. Bridick grappled with a man allegedly armed with a weapon and protected by a bulletproof vest at 9:40 p.m. Tuesday resulted in the arrest of Gerald Gene Moss, 59, of 1639 Sixth St., Madison, a national trucking executive and former owner of the Barn and Plantation dinner theaters in St. Louis.

Moss was released Wednesday evening upon posting $1,500 cash bond.

Informational documents were issued Wednesday afternoon by the Madison County state's attorney office, charging Moss with two counts of unlawful restraint in connection with events leading up to the confrontation between the police chief and Moss. The case will be presented to a Madison County grand jury for further consideration, Chief Bridick said today.

Moss is owner-operator of Ill-Pac County (IPC) Transportation Company, Inc., headquartered at 1601 Market St., Madison, with meat delivery routes from California to Las Vegas and meat and produce deliveries between Chicago and the West Coast, it was learned.

Acting on a telephone report that a man had taken two people from a vehicle at gunpoint in the 500 block of Ewing Avenue, walking them to the rear of a house on Sixth Street, Chief Bridick, Sgt. Charles J. Bridick and Patrolman William Weidner responded.

Sgt. Bridick knocked on a rear door of the dwelling and Moss answered, allegedly wearing a bulletproof vest. (Continued on Page 4)

Hartigan pledges here to fight unemployment

The attorney general and other state executives can and should use their energy and imagination to try to solve unemployment in Illinois, a breakfast gathering was told here Tuesday by Neil F. Hartigan.

Lieutenant governor in 1972-76 and now the Democratic nominee for attorney general Nov. 2, the tall and popular Chicago barrister, now 44 years old, was on a first-name basis with many of those present. He recalled past instances in which he worked closely with Madison Countyans on projects to benefit this area.

Deploping fragmentation of the state in political and governmental endeavors, Hartigan recalled representing Illinois in signing documents in St. Louis that he felt could have led to establishment of a metropolitan airport near Waterloo.

Instead of 32,000 airport-related jobs and $4 billion of economic activity, the current state administration allowed the airport proposal to slip away, ignoring the immensely favorable impact that the facility would have had on Downstate Illinois, the speaker said.

Introduced by State Senator Sam M. Vadalabene, who served as moderator, Hartigan praised the legislative diligence and skill of "the two Sams," Vadalabene and State Rep. Sam Wolf of Granite City.

Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr. arranged the campaign breakfast, held at Charlie's Restaurant. He said the present attorney general came here from another state a few years ago and was appointed to the vacancy mainly because he was "a former law student of the governor's."

Dignitaries present included Madison County Democratic Chairman Christ Costoff, County Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer, Sheriff Ed Toffant, Appellate Clerk Walter Simmons, Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk.

He said he favors amending the Open Meetings Act to end private Illinois Commerce Commission discussions of utility rate increase proposals. The ICC exception permitting closed sessions was written by his ballot opponent.

The Democratic candidate proposes to name an ombudsman to represent consumers, and to call on experts and consumer advocates to explore utility rate-setting procedures.

"I will turn the office around and take it to the people. As lieutenant governor I worked with consumers, senior citizens and handicapped, and many of the issues and problems in Illinois today are the business of the attorney general as well as of the governor."

"Surveys show 83 percent of the people in this state are unaware of the functions of the attorney general's office, and don't know what they're getting for their $25 million 'legal fee.' That fee will be reduced, and their awareness of the office is going to increase," he concluded.

Math—for the 21st Century

By LINDA HAVLIN
What should young children be learning in math?

The answer comes from a group of mathematics researchers and educators in Europe, Canada and the United States who met to discuss the question at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Concerned about elementary school children who are asked to survive in the 20th and 21st Century with learning methods from the Middle Ages, the group put its ideas together in a book, "Toward the 21st Century in Mathematics Education."

"We want to share it with everyone who is interested in education," says Thomas C. O'Brien, SIUE education professor and director of the Teachers' Center Project which published the work.

Topics reflect the coming changes, from the addition of computers to the classroom, to new ways to test and learn and new things to teach in math.

A. I. Weinzwieg, professor of mathematics at the University of Illinois and a steering committee member for the Second International Study of Mathematical Abilities, worries about the kind of math he finds in the classrooms:

"The interest of any society require that knowledge be passed on from one generation to the next. Schools are the main vehicles for this in many societies, including our own."

"However, if we attempt to teach children by telling them what they need to know, then at best they will achieve an algorithmic understanding of the ability to apply their knowledge only in a routine manner in familiar situations."

"This is, in fact, the most common approach in schools today, with results that are all too familiar and unsatisfactory," Weinzwieg believes.

He says that schools devote too much time to developing skill and proficiency in computation which a computer or even simple calculators can do more effectively.

"Of course, we must still teach children to calculate or compute, just as we must still teach children to write, even though we have typewriters," he said.

"It is not that there is anything inherently wrong with proficiency in calculation; it is just that this is a low-level ability."

"The limited time available for school mathematics would be spent more profitably if the development of higher level abilities and understandings were emphasized."

He wants schools to teach problem solving, which requires an analytical understanding of the knowledge involved with the problems.

John Ellsworth, a former SIUE professor, now president of Centaurus Communications, Ltd., is interested in new ways for children to think and learn, particularly with computers.

"When we had our first home computer, my daughter's friends came over like it was the first television on the block," he said. They played ad-libs, a party game, where players had to fill in missing words in a story according to parts of speech.

The computer would ask for an adverb, and if the player didn't know, one of the other kids would tell him, he said. "Well, you dummy, an adverb is such-and-such."

The result was the kids taught each other the parts of speech without realizing they were getting a grammar lesson. "If you had told them to come over to our house in order to learn grammar, they would have stayed away in droves."

"But because it was fun and because there was peer pressure, the kids learned the parts of speech in an unobtrusive way," Ellsworth said.

In a section on adding new topics to a mathematics curriculum, Tamas Varga, director of mathematical education for Hungary, argues that it can be done, but it must be combined with the old material to keep a sense of continuity along with the progress.

"The world is not the same as it was 30 years ago. There is no way back—only forward," he said.

Other contributors are James L. MacLean, Toronto Ministry of Education, on assessment; Robert S. Hoek, chairman of SIUE Management Systems and Sciences, on computers and the future; Fred D. Carver, dean of education at the University of Northern Iowa, formerly SIUE, on teacher and curricular change; O'Brien on ideas that retard math progress; Martin Herbert of Centrel, Inc., on new tests; and Shirley A. Casey, of TCP, on readings.

"Toward the 21st Century in Mathematics Education" is the latest in a continuing series of books and information published by Teachers' Center Project at SIUE for parents and teachers.

It is available for the cost of printing—$2.50—from TCP, Box 122, SIUE, Edwardsville 62026. A complete list of TCP publications will be included on request. For additional information, Quad-Cityans are calling 692-2118.

Harvest time means more work for gardeners

By CHRIS DOLL
Extension Advisor

The wet July will make gardening in August a little different this year. The principal tasks are weed and disease control in existing gardens caused by the rain and humidity. But August is the time to work on fall gardens and many tasks can be done for greater production and enjoyment. Some of these are:

— Harvest sweet corn, tomatoes, melons, plums, and other garden crops for the best in home-grown flavor and quality. Grapes, pears, and apples will also be ripening in home and commercial plantings.

— Maintain the quality of fruits and vegetables by protecting the crop with sprays or dusts for insect and disease control. For instance, corn earworm infestations are high in early August, and brown rot of plums is a severe problem in ripening fruits. The worm problem in sweet corn can be reduced by spraying early silking corn with carbaryl at 48 hour intervals. Brown rot of plums can be controlled with benomyl, captan or sulfur treatments at five-day intervals up to harvest.

— Spray other fruits and vegetables only as needed. Most insect activity such as cabbage worms and cucumber beetles can be seen, and necessary sprays can be applied when they appear. Disease-prone crops will need the preventative fungicides.

— Sow fall vegetables such as lettuce, radishes, turnips, beets, carrots, beans, mustards, spinach, Chinese cabbage in the early days of August. Fall rains and cooler temperatures should make everything grow.

— The last spray for peach borer should be made by Aug. 16 this year. Use carbaryl (Sevin) at four tablespoons per gallon.

— Sow a crop of rye, oats, or rye grass in abandoned garden areas for a green manure or winter cover crop.

— Clean up weeds in the strawberry patch and apply a DCPA (Dacthal) herbicide treatment before the fall weeds germinate in late August. Be prepared to apply nitrogen fertilizer in mid-month.

— Bud-graft any favorite tree fruit variety onto a stock tree of the same species to either perpetuate or increase the variety.

— Inspect fruit plants for mites on the underside of the leaves. Mites can cause yellowing or off colored leaves that simulates growth injury. Special miticide sprays are needed to control high populations.

— Continue training grapes and thornless blackberries to the trellis or support wires. Excessive growth can be cut back if it helps to keep the plants in bounds.

— Apple and pear trees may be pruned for growth control where it is needed. Summer pruning in late August is suggested for gaining some size control of dwarfed apple trees.

— Make a note of weak growth or poor leaf color on fruit plants so that proper amounts of fertilizer will be applied next spring.

— Keep weeds from going to seed. Lambsquarters, pigweed, crabgrass, foxtail, purslane, and many other unwanted plants are starting to bloom, and this is followed by seed production. Weed control next year will be easier if seed formation is prevented this year.

— Cut or mow spent corn stalks, cabbage, and bean plants, and other garden vegetation while it is still green. Green organic matter decomposes much quicker than dry materials and future gardening will be easier. It also cleans up the garden area.

— Cold injury from last winter is still showing in some fruit plants. Dying limbs on trees is the result of damaged wood tissue that cannot withstand the stress of heat and reduced water levels. Suspected trees can be left to fend for themselves or removed to make room for replanting next spring.

Prison term in drug delivery

Cornelius "Tottie" Bell, 29, of 82 Grenzer Homes, Madison, charged by the Illinois Bureau of Investigation with distributing a controlled drug substance, was sentenced this summer to a state penitentiary term of three and a half years.

The date of the offense was not shown. The charge was filed on April 2.

ADMITTED AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT
Injured in an auto accident early this week were Mark Donihann, 22, of 612 Margaret Ave., Mitchell, who was X-rayed and admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center with injuries to her back and a laceration near her lips, and Matt Donihann, 17, of the same address, who sustained an injury to his left ankle and abrasions to both hands and was treated at the medical center.

Advance tickets for state fair on sale

Officials are anticipating increased sales of advance gate admission discount tickets for this year's Illinois State Fair, which opened today.

Bob Brinkmeier, assistant state fair superintendent, said more outlets are involved in ticket sales than last year, which was the first year the advance discount ticket program was offered. The discount tickets will allow admission to the fair for $1. Regular gate admission for persons ages 17 to 59 will be $2 until 5 p.m., when the admission price will drop to $1. Anyone 16 years of age and under, and 80 years of age and older, will be admitted to the fairgrounds free of charge.

Fairgoers may purchase advance gate admission discount tickets from farm implement dealers as well as local Farm Bureau offices, IGA grocery stores and the University of Illinois extension service. Most of more than 500 farm implement dealers are participating in this program.

Thirty-eight thousand discount tickets are available for sale at outlets throughout the state. Last year, 7,500 discount tickets were sold.

"We're pushing hard this year for two reasons. First of all, it will help attendance. We'll get those tickets out. A side benefit will involve easing the parking problem. If all the fairgoers has to do when they pull up to the gate is hand the checker his ticket, it will lessen our traffic lines," Brinkmeier said.

For more information, interested persons may call Garner Kimbrell, coordinator of the welding program at 1-235-2700, extension 252.

Seek children for care center

The East St. Louis Child Development Program of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville continues to provide day care services to area residents, and children are being sought to fill the program, according to Barbara Epps, director.

There still are spaces available for children of parents who meet the program's guidelines. Mrs. Epps said. The Child Development Program operates two day care centers for children ages 2 to 6, from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the East St. Louis Center of SIUE, 411 East Broadway, and St. Paul Church, 1500 Bond Ave.

Guidelines require that parents of children be either employed, participating in a job training program or attending an academic institution. Mrs. Epps said.

She explained that the day care centers provide a wide variety of activities that promote the physical, social, emotional and intellectual development of children. Free and reduced meals are provided for children, based on their parents' ability to pay.

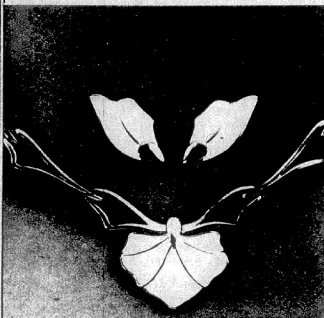

There may or may not be a fee for the program, dependent on the parents' income and size of family, Mrs. Epps concluded.

For more information, interested parents may contact the SIUE East St. Louis Child Development Program at 271-3000, extension 43 or 44 or visit the East St. Louis Center, Room 3060.

THREE CHARGES FILED
Police arrested James C. Stuart Jr., 26, of 2032 Missouri Ave. at 9:30 p.m. Monday at W. 22nd Street and Missouri Avenue on charges of passing a stop sign, driving on or without taillights and failing to notify the Illinois secretary of state of an address change. $1.5 million plant expansion sought

by DONNA KIMBRO

The Madison City Council gave approval Tuesday night for Mayor Mike Sasyk to proceed with plans with Wayne Lanter, of the Lanter Refrigerated Distributing Co., 3 Caine Drive, to consummate a $1.5 million construction project to expand the Lanter business, located in Maeras Industrial Park. Lanter proposes to build a warehouse on a tract of land adjacent to its site and the Diamond Plating Co.

Mayor Sasyk explained that the 1.8 acre tract of land is directly to the rear of Diamond Plating Co. and is presently under lease to the plating company.

They have tentatively agreed to relinquish the property, which would subsequently open the door to expansion of the Lanter company.

The mayor reviewed a proposal presented to Joe Clark of Diamond Plating whereby his rental would be abated at $75 per month on the existing eight-year lease to the city of Madison. Lanter would be responsible for the monthly payment, thereby releasing the city of any financial burden, the mayor added.

Approval was granted for the resolution with the stipulation that if Clark agrees to the terms, the city of Madison will not lease or sell the property to any person or company directly in competition with the plating company.

Presently, the Lanter Company, which has been located in the industrial park since 1969, has 40,000 square feet of refrigerated space for the food-related commodity business.

Clark responded to the city council when asked how many people the company would employ after the construction is completed, saying, "Currently, the company has been laid off, but with the proposed expansion of the company, it is feasible to think these people will be hired back and probably more hired, although no set figure on the number of employees can be determined at the present time, he said."

Each ticket costs $5.50 and the sale is being handled through the city clerk's office.

Ladies and senior citizens will get $2 refunds on their tickets at the stadium with their tickets purchased here.

PRESS-RECORD

AIR GET RESULTS

County rejects Maryville Rd. banking facility

By GEORGEANN MCGEE

of the Press-Record
A petition bearing 649 combined county and city residents' signatures protesting commercial zoning of a section of Maryville Road was presented Tuesday night to the Granite City Council.

The council's rejection of the zoning request.

Alderman Michael Modrusic said the Ward gave the petitions to City Clerk Robert Stevens, after Seventh Ward Alderman Paul Bowler made a speech warning of the adverse "environmental impact" he felt commercial zoning could have on the area.

The 1.7 acres located outside the Granite City limits on Maryville Road off Buenger Boulevard, if annexed, could become part of either the Sixth or Seventh Ward.

Attorney Leo Konzen, representing Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, asked the council to approve a C-1 (commercial) zoning classification for the property. The classification would be used if future annexation was sought for the property. An annexation request would have been the next logical step if the zoning classification had been granted, according to past practice of the council.

The bank planned to install an automatic banking facility at the site, but did not preclude future plans for a larger banking facility there.

Three hundred signatures on the petition were from nearby residents living near Maryville Road, said Modrusic.

Of those, 77 signatures came from residents of the Gorge subdivision, whose properties will be forced in the city if the bank property is annexed.

The other 223 county signatures came from the Wilshe Drive area.

Modrusic said 307 city signatures were from his ward, 31 from the Sixth Ward, and 11 from other signers.

The signatures were collected by Bowler, Modrusic and residents living near the site. "It will look like Namekito Road," Modrusic argued (if businesses line that street, and speed limit against the zoning request).

Modrusic said he prefers the section be devoted to residential development.

Konzen, however, said the bank's land on the east side of Maryville Road already is zoned for residential use.

Konzen won the battle Tuesday, but lost the zoning war. The council did approve an ordinance to include financial facilities in the C-1 classification. The change was requested by the attorney in preparation for the C-1 Maryville property zoning request, which was defeated on a 9 to 4 vote.

Voting to deny the petition were Aldermen Warren Decatur, Fred Schuman, Margaret Noin, Bowler, Paul Fisk, Modrusic, Sharon Perjak, Jake Varadian and Walter Milton. Objecting to the zoning ban were Aldermen Sam Whitmer, City Plan Commission hearing July 15 on the zoning request, he found no "ground swelling of objections," despite prior notification of residents.

At that meeting, Modrusic and one other resident objected. The alderman had pledged then to canvass area residents for their opinions.

Everett Morlen, Casmer Skubish and Carl Kitter.

One concern expressed by some aldermen voting to deny the request was the possibility that the Elizabeth Medical Center—owner of large section of property in that area—would soon sell its property. Aldermen were worried commercial zoning for the bank land would set a precedent for commercial development of the SEMC property.

Konzen, who is a member of the SEMC Board of Directors, said the announcement that the medical center is developing a site in Edwardsville has promoted a rumor the center is not interested in the Granite City property.

The attorney said the decision to develop an Edwardsville office was made before the Maryville land was donated to SEMC. For the present, he said no plans for the SEMC Maryville Road property have been discussed.

Moss

Chief Bridick noted a handgun in the left pocket of the man's trousers, according to official reports.

Asked if he was holding two people in his residence, Moss allegedly replied, "Yes," and gave the officers permission to enter the house.

Sgt. Bridick noticed a .30-caliber carbine was in a waste basket nearby and the weapon, found to be fully loaded, was retrieved by Chief Bridick and handed to Patrolman Weldner, according to police reports.

In the kitchen, the officers found a man they knew as a St. Louis private investigator and a woman friend. The pair was seated at a table.

At that point, Chief Bridick told Moss he was under arrest and attempted to remove the handgun from Moss' pocket, with Moss allegedly resisting the efforts and threatening and cursing the officer.

When the weapon was almost out of the pocket and the hands of both men were on the gun, which was pointed toward Chief Bridick's stomach, the struggle intensified and continued into a bedroom, where Moss withdrew the gun and placed it under a bed pillow, Bridick related.

Again Chief Bridick advised Moss he was under arrest and again Moss refused to go anywhere and told officers to get out of his house. After he was informed necessary force would be used if he failed to comply, Moss made a phone call for legal advice and then surrendered himself to the officers without further incident.

Following Moss' arrest, Ernest L. White, an employee of a St. Louis investigation firm, and his woman companion told Chief Bridick they were seated in an auto working a surveillance, and were driving a van toward the auto at a high rate of speed with the headlights off.

The lights came on as the van neared the auto and the investigator began backing up his vehicle. As he approached Exving avenue, White said the driver of the van, alleged to have been Moss, jumped out and pointing a .30-caliber carbine at the investigator.

Moss was wearing the bulletproof vest with a pistol and a nightstick in his pockets, it was alleged, and reportedly threatened White into stopping the vehicle and asked, "What are you watching me for?"

He told the investigator to get out of the auto, allegedly pointing the carbine at him, and allegedly threatened the man from the vehicle, shoving him to the rear of the car.

Moss asked for some identification and White showed him a driver's license. He also ordered the woman from the vehicle and asked her for identification. The investigator and the woman said they were looking for the latter's husband.

From the investigator's vehicle, Moss allegedly removed various items, including a movie camera with a zoom lens, a sports and power pack, a two-way radio and a pair of binoculars, and threw them into the street. Some of the items sustained damage.

Moss then ordered the pair to walk to his house, marching them down the street at gunpoint, police were told. He allegedly repeatedly threatened them with bodily harm if they failed to tell him why they supposedly were watching him.

At the house, Moss continued to question and allegedly threaten the man and woman and made two phone calls prior to the arrival of officers, they reported.

First tax installments this summer are due by Aug. 16.

Barion said all townships but Collinsville provided duplicate assessment books this year, allowing required work to proceed simultaneously at the township and county levels, and that all 24 townships will do so next year.

Meanwhile, on another matter, Barion predicted that Illinois legislators, reconvening after the Nov. 2 general election, will defeat the governor's Aug. 1 amendatory veto which seeks to nullify the effect of state set multipliers by lowering local governmental bodies' tax rate limits.

A spokesman for the Democratic gubernatorial nominee said the governor's plan would "out property taxes in a massive sense." He said the veto message is "not being honest with anybody about how to make up the lost revenue."

A court challenge of the governor's action is planned, contending that he is too broadly interpreting his right to correct and amend legislation.

Douglas Whitley, president of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, voiced concern about "overuse of the amendatory veto to circumvent the legislative process."

Samuel Witwer, who presided over the 1970 constitutional convention that led to enactment of the present Illinois Constitution, said the governor appears to be inviting a court test to pinpoint the extent of his power.

Democrats have said the Republican administration is putting too much of the educational tax burden on the shoulders of property owners, increasing their assessments in a way that reduces their ability to obtain state school aid.

The administration retaliated by saying the state gets no property taxes and is willing to give up the practice of setting county assessment multipliers.

Big gain in '81-82 year's lottery sales

The Illinois State Lottery's revenues in fiscal year 1982 climbed 55 percent above the previous record to $334.7 million and included more than $140 million in support for state programs.

"The Illinois Lottery has provided many millions of dollars for education, human services and other major programs that help the people of our state," Gov. James R. Thompson said. "As it continues to grow in popularity, it will continue to help our budget and the important programs for our citizens."

Michael J. Jones, lottery superintendent, said all categories of lottery operations — sales, prizes and profits — grew dramatically in the last fiscal year, and each saw a new record in fiscal 1982.

Operating expenses increased by only 2.4 percent during the same period.

He said lottery profits, the money that benefits citizens through the state's general revenue fund, increased almost 60 percent over last year's profits of $88.6 million, reaching $140.6 million.

Prizes to players of lottery games also increased 60 percent, to more than $160 million, up from last year's $104.4 million.

Commissions paid by the lottery to agents and suppliers increased 42.6 percent from $18.1 million to $23 million.

Jones said that of the lottery's total revenues of $334.7 million, $333.3 million came from ticket sales, while the remaining $1.4 million came from interest and licensing fees.

Of the total sales of $333.3 million, $248.1 million was generated by the lottery's daily game, in which players pick their own three numbers and can see if they win by viewing a live television event daily except Sunday.

Daily game sales increased 52 percent over fiscal 1981 sales of $154 million.

Sales for the new On-Line Pick 4 game, similar to the daily game except that players pick four numbers and can win up to $5,000 in live selections twice weekly, were $17.7 million. Pick 4 began in February 1982.

Greatest sales increase, in terms of percentage, was in the lottery's instant games. They registered a 62 percent sales gain from $41.7 million in the previous fiscal year, to $67.5 million in fiscal 1982.

Fiscal 1982 instant games sales were $7 million higher than the previous record set in fiscal 1977. The year extends from July through June.

Jones attributed the major increase in instant game sales to changes both in the games and in lottery marketing.

He said the instant games developed and sold in the last year have been among the easiest to play of all instant lottery games ever offered in Illinois. In addition, the prize structure on instant games has been changed so more players can win significant prizes.

"Instant games were always the sleeping giant of the Illinois lottery," Jones said.

"We felt that by adding more prizes at the $25 and $50 level, by stressing the simplicity of playing instant games and by adding $100,000 instant prizes, new players would be attracted. Looking at the sales figures, more people are playing instant games than ever before."

Research has shown that instant lottery games are widely based, appealing to all groups of players regardless of age, economic status or geographical location.

Since the lottery began in July 1974 more than a half-billion dollars ($506.4 million) has gone back to the general revenue fund.

Of the fiscal 1982 total of $140.6 million in lottery profits, Jones estimated about $39.3 million or 28 percent went to help support education in Illinois.

About $38 million or 27 percent went to health and human services while 22 percent or $30.9 million went to transportation.

Of the remainder, 20 percent or $28.1 million went to the support of other state services while three percent or $4.2 million went to environmental and natural resources programs.

Jones said that in fiscal 1983 the lottery will continue to stress the addition of new lottery agents statewide. As of June 30, 1982, the lottery had a total of 4,038 agents, including $1,007 who sell the daily game and Pick 4.

World's Fair trip for twirlers

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record
The expertise of a group of local twirlers from Sharold Yount School of Baton in Granite City will be viewed next Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 10 and 11, by hundreds of visitors to the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn.

According to Scot Tilley, World's Fair on-site entertainment manager, the Yount School of Baton was chosen to appear from hundreds of applicants throughout the country.

Groups from elementary, junior and senior high schools, colleges, music academies, community centers, clubs, recreation departments and the military, representing over 40 states and several Canadian Provinces, have been selected to perform.

Thirteen girls, ranging in age from 7 to 16 years old, will represent the Granite City baton twirling school at the World's Fair.

They are Rhonda Vest, 16, Laura Flinn, 15, Zandra Yount and Stacy Counts, both 14, Patty Ryan, 13, Ann Marie Campos, Shelly Havens, both 12, Julianne Jasudowicz and Jamie Petty, 11, Jackie Mayer, 9, Angela Judd, 8, and Melissa Simpson and Darla Mayhall, both 7 years old.

Sharold Yount, owner and director of the school, said all the girls are private students.

They have been working very hard every week since March in preparation for this exciting experience," she commented.

The local majorettes will be part of a large hour-long parade, starting at 5 p.m. Tuesday, followed by the performance.

The 1982 World's Fair features the most international exhibit of any official World's Fair in the United States for the past 40 years, according to Tilley.

Twenty-one countries and over 40 corporations are taking part in the event, themed "Energy Turns the World."

Among the exhibitors are the People's Republic of China which bought an actual portion of the Great Wall to the exposition.

Japan's exhibit features walking and talking robots and the United States Pavilion, the fair's "energy showcase," spotlights "talk-back" computers and an IMAX theater with a 65-foot screen.

The local visitors also will see Union Carbide's exhibit, "See How They Run," presenting unique battery-powered toys and games, and enjoy the Folklife Festival and Family Fun Fair amusement area, the latter highlighted by one of the largest ferris wheels in the world.

In addition to bands, choirs and dance groups, the fair has an entertainment roster which showcases a dazzling array of superstars, world-famous artists, special sporting events and fireworks displays.

Bob Hope, Bill Cosby, Red Skelton, the Grand Kabuki Theatre of Japan and the Houston Ballet are just a few of the artists and companies that are appearing in conjunction with the fair, Tilley said.

The Anheuser-Busch Clydesdale horses will lead the one-mile-long parade in which the Granite City twirlers will participate, together with colorful bands, precision marching units, strolling magicians, jugglers and mimes.

Terra became eligible to participate in the national competition by winning the state crown for beauty and first alternate in talent at the Illinois-Missouri Miss Sunflower Pageant in St. Charles, Mo.

She will be a kindergarten pupil this fall at Parkway Grade School.

'Pippin' stage premiere at Washington Saturday

"We've got magic to do, just for you! We've got miracle plays to play! We've got parts to perform, hearts to warm! Kings and things to take by storm, as we go along our way!"

The above words are the lyrics to the inviting opening number, "Magic To Do," from the musical comedy, "Pippin," presented by Summerstage-Granite City, a new community theatre company.

"Pippin," a modern morality musical set in the Eighteenth Century will be presented Aug. 7 and Aug. 13 at the Washington Theater Hall on 19th Street in downtown Granite City. Curtain time is 8:15.

"Aug. 7 is the gala premiere for 'Pippin' at the Washington. The audience will have a chance to meet the cast after the performance and there also will be a cash bar. Aug. 7 is a benefit performance for the group and the evening will be like a big party," Beverly Scroggins, director of "Pippin," said.

Tickets for the Aug. 7 performance may be obtained from any cast member, by calling 677-2228 or at the door. "Now Granite City can enjoy professional-quality theater at community theater prices," Mrs. Scroggins added.

Tickets for the Aug. 13 show only may be purchased chased from downtown stores in Granite City because the downtown merchants are sponsoring the second performance.

"Pippin" is loosely based on the life of a real man named Pepin, son of King Charlemagne (translates to Charles the Great) ruler of the Holy Roman Empire. In this musical version of the king's son's life, Pippin is searching for his purpose in life — something completely fulfilling.

Throughout his journey for his identity, Pippin discovers that everyone around him has a different interpretation of his purpose, but no one knows what is right for him.

Some of the musical numbers from the show include "Corner of the Sky," describing for what Pippin is searching; "Glory," a satirical song and dance during the war; "No Time At All," an old fashioned sing-a-long lead by Pippin's outspoken grandmother, and "War is a Science," a soft shoe song and dance performed by the king and his brainwashed army.

"The music in 'Pippin' has something to please everyone. It's not all one style of music. Some of the music is rock, some is typical musical comedy and some songs are very pretty," Rogers Mefford, musical director, said. "Pippin is a dazzling show," Mrs. Mefford added.

Major characters are portrayed by Dan Hunnicutt as Pippin, Ron Pennell as Pippin's father, King Charlemagne; Cheryl Pikoriatas as Pippin's love, Catherine; John Mefford as Pippin's conceited brother, Lewis; John Manogian as the Leading Player; Mrs. Mefford as Berthe, Pippin's grandmother; Mrs. Scroggins as Pippin's plotting mother, Fastrada, and 7-year-old Nona Mefford as Theo, Catherine's son.

The players of the production include Marsha Fisher, Mary

Pennell, Melissa Pennell, Anne Scott, Betty Skirball, Dave Hunnicutt, Mike Moore, Bill Petrovich, Mark Smith and Kelly Stolz.

Margaret Pennell is the show's choreographer and Dan Vizer, a well-known concert pianist in the Granite City area, is the accompanist. Rick Willmore and George Grove designed and built the set. Norbert Tate plays the drums and Larry Heagy plays the guitar for the show.

Roger O. Hinson wrote the book and Stephen Schwartz wrote the music and the lyrics to Pippin. Schwartz also wrote the music to the popular musical, "Godspell."

Gym roof repair; continue self-insurance, investments

The Granite City School Board decided Tuesday night to install Fab-Loc fasteners instead of Tee screws on 62 new purlins being installed to help support the Granite City High School North gymnasium roof.

The change will add $1,140 to the cost of repair work being done by G. H. Sternberg & Co. Weight of snow on the roof twisted some of the supporting posts last winter, and the gym was closed for part of the spring semester.

The change was recommended by Architect Henry Gabriel. Ronald Landman, director of buildings and grounds, agreed that Fab-Loc would be a more positive fastener, providing greater gripping range.

There will be six fasteners per purlin on each of the 62 new standards. Each fastener costs $3.06.

It was decided not to place fasteners on 19 existing purlins in end bays not presently anchored, nor on 39 purlins in three center bays not now anchored.

Sale of eight-year-old high school classroom electric typewriters was approved, except for 14 which will be used to replace 10-year-old machines in elementary schools as the need arises.

The school district will receive a total of $11,944, including $8,889 from Kellogg Co. for 49 machines at $181 each, offering $225, $200 and $190 for various models, T & W Typewriter will pay $3,075 for 15 typewriters.

The board designated the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank as depository for school funds. School checks are to be signed by Treasurer Edward Dewey Melton, President George E. Moore Sr. and Secretary Robert F. Maxwell.

The robbery occurred in Granite City on Feb. 9, authorized to invest unused funds for 90-day periods.

The board extended indefinitely its 1979-82 self-insurance reserve fund agency agreement with the Trust and Savings Bank covering employee health and accident care.

Board members went on record as determining that "it is in the best interests of residents of the school district to continue a plan of self-insurance to indemnify the schools for payment of benefits to employees."

The Madison County Soccer Association will create lighted soccer fields in a little-used area of the campus of Logan grade school and Prater junior high school. The land will remain school district property and the games will not interfere with school playground activities.

Electricity will be paid by the soccer group.

First Granite City National Bank was authorized to give each high school student a folder containing drug facts and various advertisements. The folders will be suitable to hold class papers.

10 years for robbery

A sentence of ten years in an Illinois state prison has been ordered by Circuit Judge A. A. Matosian for Chester L. Byrd, 29. His address was not shown in court records.

The sentence, decided upon in July at the Third Circuit Court in Edwardsville, was based on an armed robbery.

The robbery occurred in Granite City on Feb. 9,

GC Park District to register preschoolers

Registration for fall preschool classes, sponsored by the Granite City Park District, will take place Tuesday, Aug. 10, starting at 10 a.m., at the Wilson Park office.

Youngsters who will be 4 years old prior to Dec. 31, 1982 (born in 1978), are eligible to attend preschool sessions, which are scheduled to begin the week of Sept. 13.

Classes are limited to 35 children each and a choice of class days will be offered at the time of registration.

Instructors will be Mrs. Janis Patton and Mrs. Lynn McClain, certified teachers. Parents wishing to enroll children must register them in person and present proof of residence, such as a current utility bill listing their name and present address, and the child's birth certificate.

Parents who work or are on vacation on Aug. 10 may register a child by sending the appropriate documents with a relative or friend. However, no person can enroll more than two children, a park district spokesman advised.

Preschool sessions are held at the Harold Brown (Nameoki) Recreation Center, Franklin and Amos avenues, with each group of youngsters attending twice a week, either morning or afternoon.

No charge is made for the program to persons residing in the Granite City Park District, with the exception of a 50 cents per day fee for juice and cookies. A waiting list will be compiled of non-district residents wishing to have their children participate.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Wilson Park office at 877-3059.

INJURED IN MISHAP

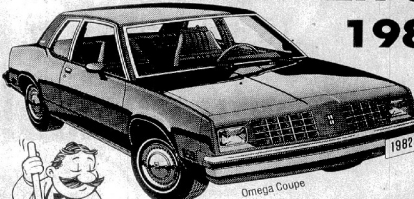

Robert Fleming, 21, of Collinsville, injured in a motorcycle accident during the weekend, was treated for abrasions, an injury to his right cheek and shoulder pains at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and was admitted.

The St. Clair-Madison County Automobile Dealers apologize to you, our customers for the interruption in the service and repair of your automobiles as a result of the strike.

We have made an offer of a substantial wage increase and agreed to the demands our mechanics made to improve their health insurance. We think the offer was excellent in view of the current economic conditions and the trends in the country concerning contract negotiations. It is unfortunate that our mechanics have not recognized the current conditions and chosen to help all of us rather than strike.

Our parts departments and sales departments are open as usual and we hope the current problem with our mechanics will be resolved. We trust you understand our position and our continuing effort to try and provide you with normal repair service.

Hospice quarterly volunteer meeting

The Hospice of Madison County's quarterly volunteer meeting will begin at 7 tonight, at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church. At these regular meetings the volunteers are kept abreast of the program's activities. However, this will be a different and special evening, with volunteer's family members, guests and friends being welcomed. The volunteers will introduce those interested to the program's new volunteer director, Lois Lybarger. Mrs. Lybarger holds a bachelor of science degree in major human services and sociology and a master's degree in counseling education with a certificate in gerontology from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

After all the business is taken care of, there will be a "Build Your Own Banana Split Party" with fresh fruit and various toppings, whipped cream, nuts, cherries and three "creative specialists." Evelyn Todd, Alice Hunsinger and the Rev. John Walter, will coordinate the fun. Christy Bauer will play guitar for the evening's entertainment.

Rev. Walter's youth group will provide babysitting care for children during the business meeting. To be included in the combined information and merriment, those interested should call the Hospice office at 798-3399 to let them know how many are coming.

Crawford to chair CF drive in Venice

The voice of the St. Louis Cardinals, Jack Buck, chairman of the Gateway Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, has named Dale Crawford chairman of CF week in Venice.

Crawford will be conducting a door-to-door campaign this fall to raise funds which will support research and care for children affected by this leading genetic killer of young people.

Cystic Fibrosis is a fatal lung and digestive disease affecting one in every 1,500 babies born in the United States. Both parents carry the recessive CF gene. One in 20 persons may be carriers without knowing it. With continued research, a test should be discovered to determine who the carriers of the CF gene are. At this point, 50 percent of the CF patients are living to enjoy their 18th birthday and beyond, due to improved therapy, Buck points out.

"We all have to help out, so that our contributions can continue to lengthen the lives of young people with CF," said Crawford. "You can help by participating in, or contributing to our door-to-door campaign."

Burglary sentence—four years

Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick in July sentenced George F. Becker III to a term of four years in an Illinois state prison.

Becker, 29, of 929 Greenwood St., Madison, committed a residential burglary in Granite City on Jan. 29, court records show. He was arrested outside the home of Steve and Linda Curless, 2137 Benton St., where police responded to a report of a burglary in progress.

An officer found a broken window and saw someone inside the residence just before a man emerged from the front door and ran across the lawn.

The man was tackled and arrested. An auto belonging to Becker, parked in the 2100 block of Adams Street, later was found and impounded.

Malnutrition and overeating harmful

(This is the 11th in a series of 15 articles exploring "Food and People." In this article, physicians Marvin Cornblath of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development and Norman Kretschmer of the University of California discuss the often tragic consequences of malnutrition on human development. Copyright (c) 1982 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By MARVIN CORNBLEATH and NORMAN KRETCHMER

Of all the environmental influences that shape human development, food is one of the most critical.

Inadequate nutrition, particularly at the early stages of life, can lead to physical or mental retardation or other devastating disorders — robbing the individual of any potential for a normal or productive life.

Human development includes all of the biological changes or events that take place in the life of the human from the time of conception until the time of death.

Development is an orderly unfolding of genetic information over time. It depends on two basic factors: first, the normality and quality of the genes and, second, the impact of environmental pressures, including nutrition.

Nutrition includes not only the basic foods necessary for energy, growth and protection, but also those essential materials that cannot be made within the human body but are critical for normal growth and development.

These include vitamins, certain amino acids (the building blocks of proteins), fats, water, and trace elements that are required in varying amounts according to our heredity, ethnic background, and state of development.

Adequate nutrition is important for well-being at every stage in development, but especially during the early life of the organism, when it is more vulnerable to environmental influences than at any other period.

PREGNANCY AND THE FETUS. One of the most sensitive periods in the development of the human is prior to birth.

During pregnancy, the fetus is dependent completely on the maternal environment for its nutrition, and it is shielded from the external environment by the mother and the placenta.

The fetus gets its nourishment from foods that have been metabolized by the mother. These placenta effectively screens, facilitates or slows the flow of nutrients to the fetus, in addition to clearing waste produced by the fetus.

Thus the fetus depends for its well-being not only on its own inherent metabolism, but also upon the health of the mother as well as the functioning of the placenta.

An extreme disturbance in any of the three can severely affect the fetus.

Both the timing and the severity of any abnormality are critical factors in determining the effect on the developing human being.

For example, severe malnutrition of the mother very early in pregnancy can result in spontaneous abortion.

Severe malnutrition late in pregnancy can result in infants who are born too small or, in some cases, too soon.

Such low-birthweight babies bear a higher than normal risk of retardation, deafness and other neurological disorders. And they account for a high percentage of the deaths among newborns throughout the world.

The effect on the fetus or newborn can be the same when the mother is well nourished but has a systemic disease such as hypertension or heart or kidney disease — or when the placenta is malfunctioning.

The importance of special nutrients during the prenatal period is demonstrated by cases in which specific genetic defects prevent the mother or the fetus from metabolizing an essential nutrient.

For instance, in cases of maternal phenylketonuria, the mother is unable to metabolize an essential amino acid, phenylalanine. If her condition is left untreated, her infant is usually mentally retarded.

In the case of galactosemia, the fetus is incapable of metabolizing galactose, a component of milk sugar. If the pregnant mother is not given a low-galactose diet, her infant might have cataracts and be mentally retarded.

NEEDS OF THE INFANT. Following birth, infants are still dependent on others for food.

The caloric, protein and fluid requirements of infants vary according to their maturity, size and whether or not they were born prematurely.

Premature infants, for example, require more water and more protein in relation to their weight than do full-term babies.

However, all newborns require certain specific nutritional elements. Certain amino acids are essential at this time of life but not later on in development. The same is true for such trace elements as iron and zinc, and for certain fatty acids.

The requirements of most newborns for proper growth and development can be met entirely by breast-feeding. However, when breast-feeding is not possible, infant formulas can be effective substitutes.

Some infants with certain genetic disorders, such as galactosemia or phenylketonuria, cannot tolerate breast milk and require special formulas.

Individual needs in metabolism also dictate the requirements for calcium, iron and vitamins during infancy.

Iron supplements are necessary during the infant's first year to allow proper red blood cell production during this period of rapid growth. Vitamins C and D and certain essential fats are also necessary.

The importance of proper nutrition during infancy becomes strikingly apparent when one considers that infants double their birth weights by age five months and quadruple them between 18 and 24 months, by which time toddlers are half their adult height.

WEANING: RISKS TO TODDLERS. The next most critical period in development is that when the infant is weaned from bottle or breast.

Indeed, weaning may be the most critical period in human life, especially in the poorer countries where — because of cultural and economic factors — many children are weaned to a diet high in carbohydrates and low in protein.

In the developing world, weaning is the period during which infants are most vulnerable to protein-energy malnutrition.

The lack of not only protein but also energy foods during this critical period, coupled with the additional needs of the growing toddler, is potentially lethal.

It is estimated that in the very poorest countries, more than 200 deaths occur among every 1,000 children aged one to four.

Many of these deaths are associated with inadequate nutrition.

CHILDHOOD AND PUBERTY. During the period between two years of age and the growth spurt just before puberty, calories, protein, vitamins, water and mineral needs are minimal.

Appetite during this period is related more to activity than to growth and development.

Growth continues, but it often occurs in spurts, usually in the fall and spring, when appetite and nutrition needs are increased.

With the onset of puberty, however, hormonal changes, growth differentiation, sexual development and changes in body proportions all affect nutritional needs.

Expressed in terms of needs per pound of body weight, more protein, more iron (in the menstruating woman) and more calories are necessary for the rapidly growing adolescent than for the adult.

NUTRITION AND ADULT LIFE. Good nutrition in the fetus, infant, child and adolescent lays the basis for a healthy adult life both physically and mentally.

Obesity and other ailments of adult life, particularly at older ages, can be prevented if healthy eating patterns have been followed.

Although the effects of nutrition on development are most dramatic in the young, they are by no means confined to this age group.

Many millions of adults in the less developed world are unable to do an adequate day's work because they do not get sufficient calories and proteins, vitamins and minerals.

Their development in many ways is stunted not only by the irrevocable nutritional deprivations of infancy and childhood, but by chronic undernutrition as adults.

At the other extreme, many of us in richer countries experience impaired health and shortened life because of overconsumption, especially of sugars, salts and fats.

Thus, diet is a vital factor in human development throughout life.

Here are basic nutritional needs, respectively, in calories per pound, water (cubic centimeters per pound) and protein (grams per pound):

Infant - 45, 21 and 1.1.
Child (age 3-6) - 40, 16 and 1.0.
Adolescent male - 30, 12 and 0.8.
Adolescent female - 24, 12 and 0.6.
Adult male - 17, 10 and 0.4.
Adult female - 18, 10 and 0.3.

Next: Derrick B. Jelliffe and E. F. Patrice Jelliffe of the School of Public Health, University of California, Los Angeles, will discuss the advantages of breast vs. bottle feeding of infants.

Cities, townships face Aug. 31 ambulance cutoff deadline

By GEORGEANN McKEE
of the Press-Record

Emergency ambulance service for communities not in compliance with Granite City's new ambulance contract regulations will be discontinued after Aug. 31.

City aldermen voted Tuesday to cut off ambulance runs by that date to surrounding townships and cities slow to recognize the city's amended ambulance contract.

According to City Comptroller Joseph Miklovic, Nameoki Township is the only community now paying a new retainer fee required under Granite's ambulance contract, which was amended May 1.

Other communities, including Pontoon Beach village and Venice Township have expressed at least a temporary willingness to abide by the new contract, but have not yet taken such action, according to Miklovic.

In Venice — the only community thus far to outright reject Granite's ambulance service — a badly burned resident was transported to the hospital by police car last week, after a decision was made not to wait for an ambulance.

Venice officials still are negotiating with Officer Funeral Home in East St. Louis to act as its primary ambulance service provider.

Provisions of Granite City's amended contract which some communities find objectionable include higher individual ambulance run rates, the yearly retainer fee for participation in the service and a stipulation making communities financially responsible for all those transported from locations within their boundaries.

Granite City cited as reasons for higher rates its subsidizing of the service by taxpayers' funds by about $210,000 yearly, plus inadequate government reimbursement for bills on Medicare and Public Aid calls made on out-of-town runs.

"It's pretty hard to say, 'no ambulance service,'" Ambulance Committee Chairman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward said. He noted, however, that the Aug. 31 deadline will give communities one more chance to accept the city's offer.

Aldermen have apparently grown weary of "hedging" neighboring municipalities after contract talks with them, which began last March, have yet to produce a solution.

A letter by Walter "Dick" Sparks, Chouteau Township supervisor, asking Granite City to continue serving Chouteau under the old contract was rejected by City Comptroller Joseph Miklovic. Mayor Paul Schuler attacked Sparks' suggestion and said service will have to be discontinued to any community failing to accept the new rates, rather than having Granite City taxpayers subsidize service to them.

"We can't allow any government entity to keep putting us off," Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward, said. But, the aldermen warned the council, that in the future, Granite City residents in need of ambulance service while in the cutoff communities might be faced with the same lack of service.

For example, a Granite City resident injured in an accident in Chouteau Township may not be able to call for a Granite City ambulance if Chouteau rejects the new contract.

Sparks said yesterday that he believes the new rates are too high and objects to Chouteau residents being charged $125 per call when Granite City residents are charged $100 per call. Sparks also said that while he can accept the retainer requirement, he feels that Granite City would be "making money" under the proposed agreement.

An alternate agreement by the Chouteau supervisor was rejected last month.

For several years, Granite City has been providing most of the ambulance service for Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach Village, in addition to the townships of Chouteau, Venice and Nameoki, for $90 per call.

The new rates, effective May 1, hike the cost by $35, plus 10¢ per mile traveled, portal to portal from the station house where the call originated to the accident or illness scene and then to the medical center.

Since Granite City

amended its ambulance contract, Venice has withdrawn from the agreement and both Pontoon Beach village and Nameoki Township have threatened to cancel.

Merchants object to turning off stoplights

A proposal by the Illinois Department of Transportation to remove all traffic signal lights at Third, Sixth and 12th streets on Madison Avenue in Madison, which has caused concern among businessmen and the council members as to its safety factor for area residents, was a main topic of discussion at Tuesday night's Madison City Council meeting.

Letters from Schermer Super Markets, Inc., and First National Bank in Madison were read by City Clerk John Bellico, indicating displeasure and concern if the traffic lights are eliminated at the three intersections. Both letters remarked about the traffic and risk of accidents to both motorists and pedestrians at the Sixth and 12th streets locations during busy business hours.

"Not only will this create a hazardous situation, it will discourage shoppers from trying to cross a busy intersection with the elimination of the light at 12th Street, according to the statement from David Schermer of the grocery. He contended, "A seven percent drop in my business would cost the city as much in lost sales tax as the operation of all three Madison Avenue lights."

The bank's letter voiced concern for a smooth traffic flow through its drive-in facility during banking hours and particularly at peak and rush hours if the Sixth Street light is removed. It added that many of the bank's customers pick up mail, including checks and food stamps, at the Post Office then cross the street to the bank to transact business. This would prove to be a difficult feat, if there is not a light to halt traffic for pedestrians, it was contended.

Andre Gitcho, bank president, noted that the bank, which has been in operation since October, 1974, and has never had a traffic accident or incident, but with the elimination of the intersection signal light automobiles wishing to exit the premises may have trouble entering the flow of traffic on Madison Avenue.

After a discussion on the problem, the aldermen voted unanimously to have a letter forwarded to the state of Illinois listing the objections of turning off of the traffic lights at all three intersections, on behalf of the businessmen and city of Madison.

In conjunction with the Purchasing Committee's advertisement for bids on necessary materials and equipment for the alarm communication systems, eight bids and two letters were read by Bellico. Companies complying with the specifications set by the City of Madison were from Cincinnati, Ohio; New Jersey, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Ind., Melrose Park, Ill., Athens, Ga., and New York.

All bids were referred to the purchasing committee, which will determine which company will receive the contract for specified materials, at the lowest cost. The resignation of Vasil Graville as humane officer was accepted with regret during the meeting. Mayor Sasyk commended Graville on his work during the years as humane officer. He said there are three applicants for the position and suggested the Health Committee meet with Graville and the applicants to outline the duties of the officer prior to selecting a replacement.

Members of the committee include Aldermen Ida Danl, Paul Ashford, William Gushleff and Thomas Gordan.

Approval was granted to Dorothy Hinson, chairman of the Salon 84, Eight and Forty, to sponsor a tag day on Sept. 24 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. for the benefit of the Gateway Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis. Solicitations will be at First National Bank in Madison and the Schermer store.

In other business, Mayor Sasyk suggested that city officials take a positive step in helping the unemployed by creating a program for vocational training and then seek possible job placements for the top students.

He said he talked with John Palchiff, superintendent of schools, requesting that the proposed project be submitted to the board of education for approval to use the junior high school.

"I would also like to have Belleville Area College involved in this program to offer beginning and advanced training to the unemployed so, at the conclusion of the educational program, they are fully qualified for area jobs, the mayor explained.

Sasyk added he expects to have a more detailed outline to submit for discussion at the next council meeting.

The mayor appointed Paul Lunsford to a two-year term on the Police Pension Board, to replace Manuel Kastin.

McDonalds takes two from Corral as lights go out

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

There is something to be said for rivalry. And for determination. The McDonalds and Corral inter-city league teams were determined to play both games of Monday night's double header at the Granite City High School South field. So determined, in fact, that they did not stop until park district officials showed up to turn out the lights at the 10:30 p.m. deadline.

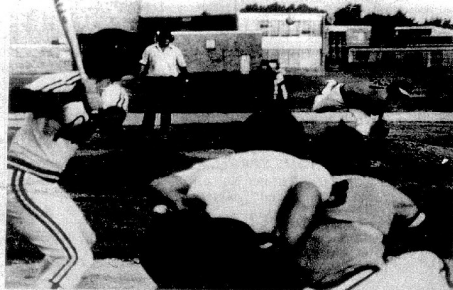

There was some talk of trying to persuade those in charge to allow the game to go on. Someone, however, must have decided against it. Probably somebody from Corral as McDonalds won the first game 14-7, including a long 19th inning that sent the double header past the allotted playing time, and led at the end of the fifth 10-1 to take the second game.

The Corral players knew they had to win both games to take first because the rival McDonalds held the top position with a one-game lead.

The first game was much closer than the second. McDonalds scored in the second when Bob Ford crossed because Corral held onto the ball and did not throw home after Bill Dalton singled to center field.

Corral came back in its half to tie the game on an over-the-fence home run by Tom Greco. It was not until the sixth that McDonalds brought in three more runs aided by three Corral errors. Corral again came back in its half and brought in two runs, on back-to-back homers. Greco again homered over the left field fence and Jeff Tretter slammed one over the center field fence.

McDonalds pitcher Albert Yount just watched both trail out of the sports complex. His sigh could almost be heard in the stands.

Ray Harris, McDonalds manager, thought it might be time to have a word with Yount. Harris said he started to panic after the second homerun. "Albert asked me to let him pitch to one more batter and see how he did. I thought it might be better to let him throw to a few more batters."

No need to worry: Yount struck out the next batter for the third out and then went the distance.

The seventh inning lasted nearly as long as the first six innings. Corral, who was winning, ran into trouble when pitcher Bud Prazma was replaced by Tretter in the seventh. It was a good thing Tretter hit the home run — it was his redemption.

Tretter walked lead-off batter Pat Hogan, who is a good baserunner and promptly stole second. Dan Schaus then tripled to center field for the RBI.

John Pritchard, the third batter Tretter pitched to, walked. Bob Ford, who hit two home runs against Corral in Sunday's double header, reached on an error by shortstop Mike Clark that brought Schaus home.

Jeff Parker doubled to bring Pritchard home. Up to that point there were no outs. After John Vrenick hit to second and was thrown out at first, Dalton singled to score Ford and Parker turned on the speed and also crossed.

Kevin Sykes singled and then Steve Ficker was hit by a pitch. Hogan came up for the second time that inning and reached on a throwing error by second baseman Jeff Stamper which scored both Dalton and Sykes.

With two outs, Pritchard tripled to clear the bases. One more error and a single by Parker later, Corral got out of the inning.

Corral did come back in the last half of the seventh and brought in four more runs. Larry Burns singled and so did Mike Robertson, who eventually was tagged out at third. Doug Rains singled to score Burns and Clark went to first on an error by Parker. He crossed when Dave Hagenbrock singled. Tom Greco doubled, but was stranded.

By this time, it was after 8 p.m. The second game was much shorter but equally as painful for Corral.

McDonalds brought four runs in during the third on five hits after Hogan started the spree off with a double. In the fourth, McDonalds brought one in and polished the game off with five in the fifth. Vrenick tripled for two RBIs that inning.

In the fifth, Corral brought in its lone run after Stamper singled and stole. He crossed on a when Clark fled out to left field.

Corral pitcher Mike Robertson had six strike outs, but also allowed three walks.

Harris said he expected McDonalds to win big.

"They used their best pitching yesterday," he said referring to Sunday's double header. "I was almost sure (McDonalds would win)."

Both McDonalds' pitchers also were credited by Harris. "Tim Kirksey did a good job. So did Albert."

As he continued to comment, the lights at the field, standard-by-standard, were turned off and the rivalry completed for the season.

Nine-week soccer show debuts with Gene Baker

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Gene Baker, Granite City High School South head soccer coach, does not seem to be the average talk show host. He does not appear to be wearing a suit and tie or even a casual pullover. His attire is much more informal — soccer shorts, a jersey and soccer shoes. Rather than a studio setting, Baker's show is taped in front of the kickboard at South in the heat of the afternoon.

But then, the show itself is rather unique. "Soccer Kickboard with Gene Baker," is something the host has wanted to do for quite some time. The concept is to make area cable viewers aware of soccer programs and players in the area.

The first show, about the Gateway Conference debuted Tuesday at 7 p.m. and was repeated Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. It will be shown again Saturday at 11 a.m. Each of the nine 30-minute shows will have a different theme and will be aired three times a week in the same time slots.

"This is really needed," Baker said of the show. He said that because soccer is so big in Southern Illinois, a show about soccer will make people more aware of the sport. And there are two added advantages.

A particular college coach might be watching and see these kids and keep the name in mind," Baker said.

Talent area soccer players will make weekly guest appearances. The premiere show featured Bob Kehoe, North coach, Bruno Gwardys, Edwardsville coach, two players from Edwardsville, two from Granite City North and five from South. All were interviewed and had the opportunity to talk about their respective teams.

It also is the host's intent to "bring more people out to the games." Baker said that during the last few seasons, soccer has withdrawn football in attendance. Other teams in the Gateway Conference have enjoyed large crowds.

In addition to South and North, Edwardsville, Cahokia and Belleville Althoff are in the conference. To show the extent of talent in the conference, Baker said that Althoff finished last with a record of 14-10-2.

Coaches from Althoff and Cahokia were unable to attend the taping of the first show on Monday. But Kehoe and Gwardys provided plenty of color commentary. The players also had a chance to display their talents as they played volleyball tennis, where players are positioned on each side of the kickboard and the ball is kicked or headed back and forth over the top.

Volley tennis is designed to help soccer players improve their skill and technique. "To an extent it improves reaction time because they cannot see the ball come off the foot from the other side," Kehoe said.

"The kickboard itself, is a device used to 'hook' various skills," Baker said on the first show. Each week, the kickboard will be an added feature of the show. Baker said players will be seen using the kickboard as they would in practice, often bouncing the ball off it. "We'll bounce some ideas around too."

Baker introduced Gwardys by complimenting him on turning Edwardsville into a competitive soccer team. "The kids are headed in the right direction," he said and added that Edwardsville has the potential to play in future state tournaments.

John Edmond, a junior midfielder, and Brian Pouch, a senior striker, were the featured Edwardsville players.

Both featured North players, Steve Tritschuh and Rick Branding, played with the North IH soccer team that recently won the first Illinois soccer tournament in Champaign last weekend. Branding, a goal tender, got the shut out in the 1-0 final game against Bremen of West Germany. Kehoe described Branding as "one of the finer, if not the finest goalkeepers in the area." Tritschuh got the assist on Ed Cowley's goal in the final.

"Tritschuh said he believes North will have a good forward line" this season. Last year, the team finished 12-2-6. Two of the six ties were against South.

Baker also talked about last season and said he "was very pleased," but added that it was probably the worst season South has had as the team did not compete in the state tournament. But the team played quality soccer, Baker said.

Bill Heney, Tony Segobiano, Fritz Brewer, Barry Grote and Matt Sheridan were the featured South players. Baker said that Heney, a three-year starter, and tri-captain in the upcoming season, has the potential to play National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I soccer in the future. Brewer also was described as being a "college caliber" player.

Segobiano played on the Mendoza team and Grote and Sheridan show future potential. When asked to pinpoint a reason for his success, Grote said that Ruben Mendoza has helped greatly. Baker agreed that the local youth soccer program is instrumental in the success of high school programs.

"This show is a recruiter's dream," Baker said as the players were being interviewed.

Next week's topic is college soccer. Future shows will deal with girls soccer and indoor soccer.

NEW CABLE SHOW. Gene Baker, Granite City High School South head soccer coach, opens his new nine-week cable TV show "Soccer Kickboard with Gene Baker." The debut was Tuesday night on Channel 1. The show will feature local soccer players and discuss various themes relating to soccer in Southern Illinois. Next week, the topic will be college soccer. Mark Hopper, of South-Western Cable TV, tapes the show in the above photograph.

Civics batting well this season

By AL BARNES
For the Press-Record

The Southwestern Illinois Civics baseball team, after blitzing four teams the past two weekends in the Missouri state tournament of the National Baseball Congress to win the crown in the double elimination meet, Maryville College in St. Louis County, had left to put its play "on hold."

Originally scheduled to open this Saturday at either Wichita or Liberal, Kan., the Civics now will play their first game next Tuesday, Aug. 10 at Dumont Stadium. Time and opponent is yet determined.

The Civics, now 29-17-1, appear to have "peaked" at the right time to make a run for a national championship. In two previous trips to Wichita, the Civics finished eleventh both times.

The team battling figures for the Civics in the Missouri state NBC tournament tells the story: they hit a mind-boggling 34-10-2.

Leading their offense was their slender right fielder, Bill Stolte, Ex-

Cougar All-American from Edwardsville who clubbed every offering thrown to him in the four games at Maryville: he went to bat 18 times and collected 10 hits, including a double, three triples and one home-bagger. In the process, he drove in eight runs, and upped his season average to .433.

Granite City's own Jim Greenwald also had a tremendous tournament as he hit safely seven times in 14 trips with one double, two homers a triple and six RBIs.

The Civics' five top hitters are: Stolte, Tim Gamble, (.360); Keith Hoskinson (.320); player-manager, Bobby Hughes, (.320); and Greenwald, (.310).

The Civics' pitching corps got a big boost in the second weekend of the NBC Missouri state meet at Maryville with the addition of Bill Shanks, ace of the St. Louis Knights. A graduate of Sumner High, Shanks starred for the U. of Missouri at St. Louis Rivermen and defeated the Civics this current season,

2-1, on three hits. One of those hits, of course, was George Vogel's two-out four-bagger in the third frame to tie it up, 1-1, until the ninth.

It had been a nail-biting duel between Shanks and the Civics' Jeff Gass. The Knights won it in the ninth on a two-out double by John Windom which scored the winner.

Others likely to see mound action for the Civics would be southpaw Tom Kloeckner and Vince Broderick and right handers Jerry Deml, Keith Harper, Tom Hanson, Tim Rakkers, and, if needed, Vince Plantz.

Right now, the Civics' outfield would most likely be: Darrell Wehrend, left; George Vogel, center, and Bill Stolte, in right. That trip, both offensively and defensively, would be extremely hard to beat anywhere in the United States.

On the infield, it will be: Jack Scarborough, at first; Tim Gamble, at second; and Tim Kavanagh at third. At shortstop it would be John (Cookie) Victorian. Right now, the catching chores would be handled by Rusty Hilgenkamp, former All-American at Southwest Missouri State U., and the owner of a strong, accurate throwing arm, and a steady rising batting average. Ready to step in behind the plate or to fill in at both third and first base, is Keith Hoskinson, who broke into the varsity lineup last spring at the U. of Kansas, but appears headed to play his sophomore year at Meramec Junior College.

Paddlers' swimmers ready for SWISA

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

By today, Paddlers' swimmers are undoubtedly beginning to feel a touch nervous about Saturday's Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association conference championships at Bellefontaine.

Coach Celeste Sonnenberg conducted a screaming session on Tuesday because the swimmers "won't get serious. They think it's not until Saturday and today's only Tuesday," she said. Miss Sonnenberg is not a mean woman in fact it is difficult to imagine her raising her voice enough to scream. However, she is concerned about the conference meet because Summer Haven, which just started competing this season and has some good swimmers in the older age groups, will take some points away from the other teams — possibly Paddlers'. Eight teams will compete Saturday.

At times this season, it has been necessary to impart some of her concern onto the team. While practice sessions may have been earlier this week, the final two days will be a different story.

As Saturday has drawn closer, some of the 65 Paddlers' entrants might be feeling a bit more somber about the meet. Paddlers' is after all, the defending championship team having won the SWISA conference title two years in a row.

Miss Sonnenberg will say she is not overly confident. Yet, as she spoke she talked of how other teams will be out to get Paddlers'. "This will be the third year in a row we've won it." When it was pointed out that she had just prophesied, she laughed and added, "if we win it." It may have been a subconscious slip because Miss Sonnenberg seems truly concerned.

Practices, she said, have been tough with emphasis on "quality swims." Tomorrow the team will concentrate on starts and turns. "Today (Tuesday) they went about 80 percent, tomorrow 60 percent," she said. The effort swimmers put out during practice this week, "I think they're ready," she said and mentioned the old "if you don't know it by now."

Friday will be a day in which Miss Sonnenberg and her assistant, Mike Burnworth, will repeat that line incessantly. "Friday it will be 'watch this, watch this, how's this,'" she said. The SWISA participants, who were selected on the basis of time, will feel a sense of panic Friday and try to work out every little problem and question.

Two swimmers will compete in each event. Miss Sonnenberg and Burnworth will carefully watch the Paddlers' swimmers and record the "splits" (the time at 50-yards) during each heat.

Miss Sonnenberg and Burnworth will then tell the swimmers about any noticeable problems so the mistakes will not be repeated during the finals. The goal that has been set by the coaches and the swimmers is "everybody makes the finals," she said.

This is quite a goal, although not at all impossible, because the other seven teams will be out to get Paddlers'. "This is a probably all convincing to figure out how to do it (beat Paddlers')." All the swimmers at the meet will, however, share the same advantage when it comes to times.

Because the Bellefontaine pool is measured in yards instead of meters, Miss Sonnenberg said the swimmers will be more motivated. Times will be faster by about six seconds for each 100 yards she said. Once again the swimmers have been told not to concentrate on beating any particular person, but to think of their times. Miss Sonnenberg said she expects the point spread to be close, within 10 or 15 points.

"But we won't know until Saturday," she said.

know they have to do well as individuals for the team to win. When we stress the team, it takes the pressure off them."

At the conference meets, Paddlers' divers traditionally gather around and cheer for each other. Probably, the swimmers try to mentally keep tabs as to how the team is doing.

And as always, the relays will be a good indication of which team will win the meet. One of the big worries will be the possible disqualification of a relay team for a fall start or some other reason. What makes matters worse, is that the relays are the last events in the meet.

Up until that point, swimmers will ask Miss Sonnenberg how the team is doing. "I always say, 'I don't know. We're doing o.k., but I don't think we're in first. We'll have to wait until the relays.'"

She said the swimmers report back to other team members, "she said the relays will decide it." This strategy keeps the team motivated, she said. But this year, the team probably will come down to the relays. Miss Sonnenberg said she expects the point spread to be close, within 10 or 15 points.

"But we won't know until Saturday," she said.

SLU has recruiting edge in soccer

By AL BARNES
For the Press-Record

I just received in the mail the 1982 Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer schedule. It is a very impressive slate and one which will surely, and surely, test Coach Bob Guelker's Cougar kickers to the fullest.

And, while we will later cover in more detail the overall strength of the SIUE soccer schedule, the most important and revealing detail about the 17-game slate is, finally, that SIUE has moved away from his former practice of scheduling just 10 or 11 games each campaign, with the bulk of them on the road.

Just how well the Cougars do in that schedule will, of course, depend on the recruiting Coach Guelker and his staff did over the past three years. Players, and the recruiting of them, is the name of the game in most sports.

So, the question now is: how well did Bob Guelker do in his recruiting of the 1981 crop of high school soccer players?

Not knowing directly, I went to a guy, Tom Lange, who I have great confidence in his knowledge of the best kickers in the area, or at least, the St. Louis area.

Tom, whose uncle is Dave Lange, the Globe-Democrat's soccer writer, worked for me in my former job as Sports Information Director at SIUE for parts of three years. His uncle, Dave, also worked for me at SIUE.

Tom Lange tells me that Bob Guelker lost the recruiting battle with the Cougars' arch rival, St. Louis University, this year in the signing of the area's top prep kickers.

Says Tom: "Although I will argue, St. Louis won the annual recruiting war with SIUE at Edwardsville last (1981) year. This year, however, SIUE was in need of many players, number-wise, because they both have many key players returning."

"But," Lange adds, "for the second consecutive year, the Billikins were the winners in the recruiting battle between the two schools."

Lange adds: "Harry Keough, the Bills' veteran coach, landed probably the finest two high school forwards in the land when he came up with Steve Maurer and Tom Hayes. Maurer is a big, strong and fast forward and his speed made it possible for him to lead all Missouri prep scorers in total points this past season while pacing Vianney (High School) to its second straight Missouri state soccer crown."

Lange went on to say: "Hayes came close to breaking the national scoring goal at St. Thomas Aquinas and the lightning fast striker carried the Falcons to a third-place finish in the state meet this fall."

Lange goes on to predict that he wouldn't be surprised if Maurer and Hayes both break into the Bills' starting lineup this coming fall.

Lange points out that there will be two other newcomers to Keough's squad: one is Chris Kenny, a defender and Bill Vieth, Jr.

The biggest kick in the shins for the Cougars is that Kenny once was a member of the SIUE squad and rumor has it, decided to enroll at Flo Valley as the quickest, and least painful way to switch over to St. Louis U. Last year Kenny's play helped the Flo Valley Norsemen win the 1981 Junior College soccer championship. Vieth, according to Lange, was a student Indiana prep soccer star whose daddy, incidentally, starred for SIUE in his undergraduate days. Lange points out that "with 18 members of the SIUE squad returning, Guelker didn't really need to pick up a whole lot of players. He did sign Matt Tracy, a teammate of Kenny at Flo Valley. And, there are hints that the Cougars may put it all on the line."

The date to check on who won the recruiting war is Oct. 29, the night of the annual Bronze Boot Classic at Busch Memorial Stadium, when the Bills and Cougars put it all on the line.

Carson wins Armenian golf tourney

Chuck Carson of East St. Louis won the Fourth Annual Armenian Open Golf Tournament sponsored by the St. Gregory Armenian Church on Aug. 1 at the Arlington Golf Course. Carson also had the longest drive of the day.

Low Handicap honors were divided by Harry Vartanian of Fairview Heights, Joe Fahrner of Belleville and Joe Movessian (last year's champ) also of Belleville. Closest-to-the-hole honors were shared by Vartanian and Raffi Ovan of Belleville.

The annual Duffer Award was presented to Mike Petrosian of Granite City. The Duffer Award is awarded to a "special" golfer in the golf tournament.

Attendance prizes were won by Higas Asadorian, Rich Asadorian, Chuck Carson, Jim Fishbein, Bob Folio, Jeff Hagopian, Andy Hagopian, Adam Movessian, Joe Movessian, Mike Movessian, John Newman, Raffi Ovan, Bob Parsaghatian, Mike Petrosian, Manuel Rosa, Chris Tourajagian, Terry Vartanian, Harry Vartanian and Sam Vartanian.

"I've never had such a wonderful time as I did at this tournament," John Movessian, committee member of the Armenian Open, said.

Tee-off time was 11:30 a.m. The entry fee of $35 included green fees for 18 holes, golf cart, prizes, an awards banquet following the tourney consisting of shishkebab, pilaf, salad and watermelon. A dessert course of Armenian paklava was served to golfers and guests.

A surprise awaited golfers at the 10th tee where gourmet sandwiches and drinks were served.

Raffi Ovan, Bob Parsaghatian, Mike Petrosian, Charlie Tourajagian, John Manogian and Andy Hagopian organized the fourth annual golf tournament.

Junior Legion banquet set

The Junior American Legion team has scheduled its first banquet for Monday, Aug. 9 at the Ponderosa Steak House, 1511 Johnson Rd. Dinner will be served from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

After dinner, a short meeting will be conducted by John Modica, Granite City High School South head baseball coach and founder of the Junior Legion team.

Special guest speaker for the evening will be former South varsity coach, "Babe" Champion who is now a scout for the Philadelphia Phillies. Champion will offer insight as to what scouts look for in young players. Kevin Sykes and Jeff Parker, co-managers of the Junior Legion team, will be honored at the dinner.

Tennis camp set at BAC

The Belleville Area College tennis camp for boys and girls age 8 through 14, has been rescheduled for Monday through Friday, Aug. 16 through 20, due to resurfacing of the tennis courts. The camp was originally planned for Aug. 2 through 6.

The camp will be taught by BAC head tennis coach Joe Huffman, who is a SUPITA Professional. The fundamentals of tennis will be covered, including backhand, forehand, the serve, return of serve and the volley. Tactics and strategy will also be covered.

Instruction will be aimed at the beginning and intermediate player.

The camp will meet from 9 a.m. to noon at the BAC tennis courts, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville. The registration fee is $40 and includes insurance and a T-shirt.

For information and to register, call Jay Harrington, BAC athletic director, 255-7500, extension 371.

Registration will also be taken from 8 to 9 a.m. Monday, Aug. 2, at the west end of the intramural gym next to the tennis courts.

Wilson Park tennis tourney is scheduled for next week

The 22nd Annual Granite City Invitational Tennis Tournament will take place Aug. 13 to 15 at Wilson Park. It was announced by Mike Barnes, tourney director.

Age groups for boys, girls and men and women will be offered with play scheduled to start at 9 a.m. Aug. 13 for the younger age groups and 9 a.m. Saturday for the older divisions.

For more information, those interested should call Park District office at 877-3059.

Rick Daily to play in Shriner benefit

Rick Daily, a 1982 graduate of Granite City High School, will be one of 85 athletes who will head up to Illinois State University this weekend for the Illinois Shrine All-Star Football Game to benefit the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children and Burns Institute.

Daily, a member of the East All Stars, reported for training camp Aug. 1, to get ready for the game, which will be played at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 7, at Hancock Stadium on Illinois State's campus.

The game is sponsored by the Illinois Shriners and the Illinois Coaches Association. Last year the event raised an excess of $125,000 for the Shrine institutions.

Daily, a 200 pound wide receiver for the Warriors, lead the St. Louis area with most receptions and total yards gained as a receiver. He was coached by Jerry McKeahan.

Larry Davis of Mt. Carmel High School will head the East team's coaching staff, while Rich Zinanni of Kankakee (Bishop McNamara) will lead the West team's coaching staff. Last year, the East topped the West 10-0.

Tricia Barker makes her mark

Tricia Barker, a ninth grade girl from Collinsville, has made her mark as an expert shooter. The National Rifle Association has awarded Miss Barker its Distinguished Expert Rifleman rating.

The rating of Distinguished Expert is the highest possible achievement in the National Rifle Association smallbore rifle qualification program.

Miss Barker has been a member of the O'Fallon Junior Rifle Club since November 1981.

"Tricia has natural abilities that put her ahead of other shooters, but above all she has the will to work as hard and as long as it takes to succeed," Col. Allen Ramsay, Miss Barker's coach, said. "I wouldn't be at all surprised to see Tricia bring home a medal from the 1988 Olympics," Ramsay said.

Miss Barker said that she never even shot a gun before October 1981. Her first interest in guns came from her parents, Richard and Pat, who also shoot.

Working her way through the 14 lower qualification levels, Miss Barker consistently shot higher scores in each of the four standard shooting positions: prone, sitting, kneeling and standing.

In the prone position, her best score is 100, in the sitting and kneeling positions she averages 95, and in the standing position her best score is 93.

Miss Barker is the granddaughter of Katie Stasoff, Mary Enos and Mr. and Mrs. Roland McMillen all of Granite City.

"I'd really like to go to the 1988 Olympics," Miss Barker said.

Less in-state truck regulation

A new Illinois law reduces regulation of the use of farm vehicles and other types of in-state trucks. It seeks to correct some of the shortcomings in the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations as they apply to carriers that operate only within Illinois.

The federal regulations were adopted last year to cover intrastate carriers in addition to interstate carriers.

One section states that drivers must be 21 years old. While interstate carriers comply with this, intrastate carriers say they would have difficulty complying, since they already have many drivers who are not yet 21.

This also could create hardships for family farms in getting crops to market, it was contended.

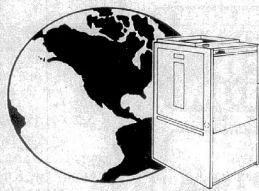

Other portions of the law remove required physical examinations every 24 months and disqualification from driving of epileptics and diabetics requiring insulin.

The existing law had allowed no exemptions from that medical rule and would have led to duplication of the licensing efforts of the secretary of state's office.

FATHER OF THE YEAR. Loyd Demming, left, accepts a plaque from Marsha Legate at the Word of Life Tabernacle, 1200 Meridian Ave., honoring him as the "Father of the Year." The Sunday School classes of Dickey Roseman, Mrs. Neva Lucas and Miss Lisa Crippen selected the honoree to receive the award noting he is the eldest father attending the church.

Mountain hikes by Troop 13

Eleven local Boy Scouts spent the last two weeks of July at Philmont Scout Ranch, Cimarron, N.M. Philmont, which is operated by the Boy Scouts of America, is the world's largest camping facility, covering 214 square miles.

The scouts were Tim Brewer, Darin Clatts, Brian Giese, Paul Miskell, Jim Friene, James Wilson, Joe Zinn, Kevin Haddock, John Pocker, Mark Yehling and Rich Slimec of the Cahokia Mound Council's St. Elizabeth Church Troop 13. They are among 14,500 young scouting men and women expected to hike Philmont's mountainous trails this summer.

The group was under the adult leadership of Marvin Widemer.

During the 12-day stay at Philmont, ending Saturday, they backpacked between 50 and 109 miles, visiting several of the ranch's 23 mountain camps.

At these camps, they were instructed in such things as rock climbing, rifle safety, western lore and conservation. In addition, all scouts were accompanied for their first two days by a Philmont ranger, who instructed them in the basics of backpacking and survival. This year marks the 41st anniversary of Philmont Scout Ranch. Over 400,000 people have hiked its trails since 1938, when the ranch was given to the Boy Scouts of America by oilman Waite Phillips.

SCULPTURE PLANNED. Barry Tinsley, center, of Chicago, a nationally-recognized sculptor who has been commissioned to create an art work for the Multipurpose Building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, studies plans for the site with David C. Huntley, left, director of University Cultural Arts and Museums, and Michael Dumbor, coordinator of art in architecture for the Illinois Capital Development Board. Tinsley, whose media specialty is steel, expects to sculpture a massive piece at least 12 feet high and 40 to 50 feet in length, to be placed in the plaza in front of the building. "The objective will be to make the plaza area an integral part of the overall structure and building presence," Tinsley said. The sculpture will be installed in the spring, after major construction on the building has been completed and before landscaping begins.

Fitness classes to be offered

David L. Femrite, executive director of the Tri-City Area YMCA, and Dianna Brunzell recently completed a week-long intensive workshop on the physiology of exercise and how to apply fitness techniques and fitness evaluations to apparently healthy adults.

Forty-two YMCA fitness directors from around the country attended this one-a-year fitness certification held at George Williams

College in Chicago. As a result of the training, Femrite and Dianna Brunzell will offer a new fitness class at the Tri-City Area YMCA called "Y's Way to Fitness." Femrite says, "This program will be a great way to get in shape, or stay in shape."

"People are fitness minded today and are most conscious of how they look and feel. Stress also plays a key role in our lives. Exercise is a fun and effective way to 'handle' stress problems, remove excess fat and to feel more lively and energetic," he stated.

"Y's Way to Fitness" allows people several alternatives in achieving their cardio-vascular endurance level. Jogging, swimming, bicycling, universal circuit training, walking and rope jumping are options made available during the cardio-vascular portion of the exercise class.

"We're going to have fun and get fit at the same time," says Femrite. You don't have to experience "pain in order to gain" as the old adage goes. Our 45-minute classes will have four parts to each of them:

- Warm-up and flexibility.
- Muscular strength and muscular endurance.
- Cardio-vascular fitness and
- Cool down.

Classes start on Monday, Sept. 6. Three classes will be offered. The "early bird" at 7 to 7:45 a.m., "noon-hour class" from 12:05 to 12:50 p.m., and the "after hours" class from 5:15 to 6 p.m.

"Experts believe that the best way for apparently healthy adults to stay healthy is through regular exercise and diet," Femrite noted.

Registrations are limited. Class participants are urged to get a physical examination from their doctor before signing up for the program. For those starting the fitness classes, one of the YMCA physical fitness specialists will give fitness evaluations.

Femrite added, "We at the 'Y' know from experience that a regular exercise program can lead to a healthier, more productive life."

Propose 4-year driving licenses

Illinois Sec. of State Jim Edgar has announced details of a proposal to extend the life of driver licenses from three to four years.

"The program will simplify the bureaucratic procedures of license renewal and may result in future personnel reductions at driver license facilities, allowing secretary of state personnel to provide better service," Edgar said. He also announced that his office in January 1983 will be giving vision tests every time an individual renews a license.

"Extending the life of Illinois driver licenses will benefit drivers and allow my office to administer the program more effectively," Edgar asserted. "Drivers will not have to renew their licenses as often, it will be less expensive when it comes time to renew, and service should be more efficient by the time it is completely phased in—in 1987," Edgar said.

"Adopting a four-year license program would put Illinois in line with the 32 other states which have found that a four-year license is more efficient to administer and yet meets the concern for traffic safety through regular testing requirements." There are 7,400,000 Illinois motorists, Edgar said implementation of a four-year license program should reduce processing time in his office's busiest facilities and lead to a reduction in employees or expansion of services in some or all of the 120 facilities.

Legislation will be introduced by Edgar in the next session to create a four-year license which would cost $10. Illinois drivers currently pay $8 for a three-year license, or about $2.67 annually. The four-year license would cost drivers less on an annual basis at $2.50 per year, he noted.

Drivers currently are required to renew their licenses every three years and take written and vision examinations every nine years.

If the legislation is passed, drivers under age 69 would be required to take the written test once every eight years and the vision test once every four years.

Drivers 69 and over would be required to take the vision, written and driving examinations every four years under the new program, rather than every three years, as is required currently. Of his administrative decision to require vision testing at each renewal, Edgar said, "We have been examining our driver testing procedures and regulations to determine what areas needed strengthening and which were unnecessary."

"We felt vision could and often does change significantly in a three- or four-year period, and that requiring a vision test at each renewal would be desirable, since good vision is critical to safe driving."

"Requiring a vision test at each renewal will not burden the driver or the driver licenses facility personnel. There is nothing to study for and the test only takes a few minutes," Edgar concluded.

Sentenced for battery

Dana Foster, 35, of 2516 Benton St. was sentenced in July to serve 90 days in the Madison County jail and one year of probation.

Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick presided. Foster initially was charged with aggravated battery, later reduced to battery.

No date was shown for the Granite City offense. The charge was filed April 27.

In a separate case, Foster was sentenced in June to 30 days in the county jail on a May 11 trespassing charge after allegedly entering a parked van in the 2600 block of Cleveland Boulevard.
